

HOLLY HILL

Caerus Operating, LLC

Born and raised in Denver, Holly is fiercely proud to be a Colorado native. She is currently the Regulatory Manager at Caerus Oil and Gas, which operates primarily in the Piceance and Uintah Basins. She began her career in the oil and gas sector in 2005 at FIML Natural Resources as a Lease Analyst. She then made the leap to Encana Oil & Gas (USA) Inc. where, for eleven (11) years, she fulfilled various roles in Land and Regulatory disciplines. Holly also worked at Noble Energy, Inc. as an Environmental Policy Analyst and the DJ Basin Regulatory Supervisor. The bulk of Holly's professional experience has involved working primarily Federal assets in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming. Holly is well versed in the NEPA planning process for Federal permitting and has worked to acquire approvals for complex development projects that involve sensitive species and habitat as well as cultural resources.

Holly is dedicated to open, direct, and transparent communications and she strives to build constructive relationships with peers and agency stakeholders. Due to this personal ethos, Holly has worked diligently to collaborate with vital stakeholders on forming oil and gas regulations and policies. The highlights of her career involve several oil and gas rulemaking endeavors in Colorado and New Mexico. In her free time Holly enjoys traveling, anything and everything true crime, and dining out with friends (when that's allowed again...).

Holly received her BA in Sociology from Colorado State University.
